REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

The 2007–2008 school year has been an adventurous one for the students, schools, and the district as we continue to strive for excellence. We continuously make every effort to maximize the experiences of each individual in the district as we strive to use research-based practices to conduct effective, engaging instruction in our classrooms for children, as well as to provide teachers with time for collaboration, training, and sustained, ongoing professional development opportunities.

With each new year comes more complex and challenging experiences; however, the Chester County School District continues to move forward in achieving its overarching goal of obtaining Academic Excellence for all children. The commitment and dedication of the employees in our district is astounding. Success and forward progression would not be possible if not for the commitment, support, and generosity of our community.

The notion of forward movement is evident in all of our district schools. This can be attributed, in part, to the outreach of our schools and their creative ingenuity in securing family support and involvement. Schools are working to extend partnership opportunities to all parents and guardians through nontraditional means. Other contributing factors include the development of a standards' based curriculum from Pre- Kindergarten through grade twelve, quarterly benchmark testing to ensure proper pacing, and a focus on data analysis to determine the needs of children, as well as the actions that will be taken to address them. Finally, a commitment by the district to place Promethean Boards in every building has enhanced the quality of instruction in all schools as teachers are using technology to effectively support instruction and to provide students access to a plethora of information and resources.

The Chester County School District is committed to the development of all children, and although we recognize and celebrate the forward progression of the district, we continuously reflect upon how we may improve upon our weaknesses while continuing to capitalize on our strengths. Therefore, we have established goals for ensuring a quality education be provided to all children. Among these goals are a continued effort to partner with families and the community to benefit students, a partnership with the community to provide a greater service to our students who required an alternative educational experience, and an emphasis on quality, effective classroom instruction. We believe working towards the attainment of these goals will move us closer towards actualizing our goal of achieving Academic Excellence for all children in Chester County.
