WORLD CLASS SKILLS & LIFE AND CAREER CHARACTERISTICS

Our school is helping all students develop world class skills, life and career characteristics of the Profile of the South Carolina Graduate by... At Pine Ridge Middle School, we have recognized that traditionally-defined job skills once heralded as the ultimate standard for education are rapidly changing. In order to foster college and career readiness in our students, we have determined that a focus on Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) coupled with leadership skills will best fit the needs of the 21st century. Our entire faculty has been trained in The Design Process for learning in order to infuse STEM thinking processes into all areas of the curriculum. As a result, we are piloting a choice program entitled Leadership Education in Arts, Design and STEM, or LEADS. LEADS is a program designed to meet the overall goal of "enhancing student leadership, interest, and retention in STEM career fields." This program will provide students the opportunity to explore various science and math strands from an engineering and technology standpoint while infusing art, design, written and verbal expression. Finally, at the forefront of all that we implement and model is the Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports process. This proactive and preventative philosophy enhances the learning in our school by creating a culture of leaders committed to promoting a positive learning environment. The PBIS process embedded school-wide expectations, common language and the belief system that our GOLD standard will be reached by all staff and students. Our school's branding of GOLD (Give my best, Own our learning, Lead by positive example and Demonstrate excellent manners) elevates learning, through the reinforcement of our common language in and out of school between teachers, students and community.
