District Superintendent's Report

Spartanburg School District Three had many opportunities to celebrate achievements during the 2007–2008 school year. Academics, Fine Arts, and Athletics continued their growth in excellence.

Broome High School students earned $2,914,996 in higher education scholarships this year. The Athletic Department had another outstanding year with 6 region championships and two state champions in cross country and boys track. Music and art departments across the district showcased the talent of our students in a wide variety of venues. Many students were recognized for their artwork and musical talents not only in Spartanburg County, but statewide and in the southeast.

Once again our schools showed exceptional achievement in accountability measures. Cowpens Elementary, Pacolet Elementary, and Daniel Morgan Technology Center earned the prestigious Palmetto Gold and Silver awards which provide performance funding bonuses. Cannons Elementary School, for the fifth time in a row, also received special recognition by the state accountability commission for significant achievement gains with historically underachieving children.

Spartanburg School District Three has continued to be a state and national leader in technology. Every classroom throughout the district has Promethean Boards and sound amplification systems. Our classrooms reflect what a state of the art 21st century classroom should look like in this technological age.

Volunteer and community support for schools remains loyal and dependable. School Improvement Councils, booster clubs, and parent-teacher organizations – in concert with our Board of Trustees – never stop working to ensure that our district remains student-centered and “client friendly” for all.

Dr. Jim Ray
 Superintendent
