REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

In the 2007-08 school year, District Five continued to make progress in a number of important areas.

While we were gearing up for our $140 million building plan, we neared completion of our new $6.8 million West Market Early Childhood Center, as well as the addition of classrooms to Midway Elementary and T.L. Hanna High. All three projects are on schedule and will be ready when students return for the 2008-2009 school year. These projects will help us keep pace with our growing student population.

Most importantly, our students and teachers continued to meet our high expectations this year. Here are some of the highlights:

Our District won our seventh consecutive "What Parents Want" Award for meeting family needs. Only 16 percent of the nation's school systems qualified for this honor.

Our Ninth Grade Academies at Westside and T.L. Hanna received help from a $2.5 million competitive federal grant awarded to our district in September that will also aid our AVID programs.

In July, we established AVID programs at Homeland Park, Nevitt Forest, and Varennes elementary schools through a six-year, $1.3 million grant from the State Department of Education.

Our district was first in the state in EIA grant funding, winning a total of 68 grants worth a combined $169,000. These funds go toward promoting innovation in the classroom.

Concord Elementary and Midway Elementary earned Palmetto Gold awards, which recognize the state's schools with the highest levels of student academic achievement and the fastest rates of improvement.

A particularly exciting achievement was that Jenna Hallman, science specialist at Calhoun Academy of the Arts and our district teacher of the year, became the first South Carolina Teacher of the Year from District Five.

Our parents, teachers and other stakeholders have accepted their responsibility as agents of change. With their leadership, will, and imagination we are creating a school district worthy of our children; one that will ensure they have the best education possible and every chance to succeed.

Sincerely,

Betty Bagley
Superintendent
