Report of Principal and School Improvement Council

Each day in school has excitement and challenges. After many years of observing teachers and students, I am pleased with the excitement I see when students connect with a teacher and understand a new concept. Much of the learning process is based on the student-teacher relationship. We must always look for ways to support and improve on building relationships within our school setting.

Our new staff members have become a vital part of our team. They have shared many new ideas, and we look forward to implementing these during our school year.

We are pleased to be working with the Carolina First Center for Excellence this year to implement the Baldrige program at our school. This program will assist us in our goal of continuous quality improvement to our classrooms and school.

Teresa Bennett, SIC Chair
