District Superintendent's Report

The 2009-2010 school year was definitely one of transition and adjustment for the Chester County School District. As Interim Superintendent, I was pleased to offer a sense of stability and educational guidance to a district faced with a myriad of trials and economic hardships.

This school year has provided the opportunity for continued school improvement while students, teachers, and administrators have observed the impact of the implementation of Benchmark Assessments in all subjects across all grade spans K-12. Rigorous expectations have also lead to several schools in the district being recognized as Palmetto Silver Award winning schools. Accountability for student performance will be a continued focal point of Chester County Schools as administrators are held more accountable for teacher performance and teachers are held more accountable for the academic achievements of their students.

Early Childhood continues to be a focus of the Chester County School District, and we are thrilled to be able to offer additional full-day pre-k classes, producing more "school ready" students each year. With the expansion of Early Learning in the district, more partnerships are being forged with various community agencies and Head Start to ensure that Early Learning is always a forethought.

This school year has been a momentous one, and I take personal pride in the strengthening of the district's working partnership with the district-sponsored Charter School in the county. Building such relationships provide for continuity and permanence with all students and teachers throughout the district.

J. Edwards Demming once said that schools should be about the business of creating a yearning for learning in the hearts and minds of students, and in Chester County that has become our mission. A very capable staff is gracefully leading the school district through what is a tumultuous time. It has been an adventurous year of new beginnings. It is my expectation to see great things result from Chester County's educational program in both the near and distant future.

Dr. Phillip J. McDaniel, Interim Superintendent, 2009-2010

Dr. Richard Hughes, School Board Chair, 2009-2010
