WORLD CLASS SKILLS & LIFE AND CAREER CHARACTERISTICS

Jane Edwards Elementary School is helping all students develop the world class skills and life and career characteristics of the Profile of the South Carolina graduate by refocusing our attention on how students learn best and by actively engaging them in their learning. Students are reminded daily to always do their personal best. Lessons include more higher-level reasoning skills, critical-thinking skills, and real-world problem-solving skills. Students are expected to write, discuss, analyze, and summarize their thinking and learning. Age-appropriate lessons to support these expectations are in place for even our youngest students. Gone are the "sit and get" days for students. Students are now expected to actively participate in discussions of books they read and about math problems being solved in various ways. Students are asked to explain verbally and in writing how and why they choose answers to questions in all areas. They write in lessons to increase rigor, to consider various perspectives, and to use text to support their ideas. We ask students to persevere when the thinking gets tough and the work gets hard by pushing themselves to use resources such as their peers, adults, technology, and other print and digital media to find solutions. Students are expected to work with others peacefully and collaboratively. Students take on roles so they each get practice managing resources and data, leading the group, managing time, and providing encouragement.

To develop students' work ethic, all classwork and homework is expected to be completed to the best of their ability. Our Completion Center is open three days per week and students can go there to make this happen. Zeroes for "choosing" not to do classwork or homework are no longer part of our academic culture.

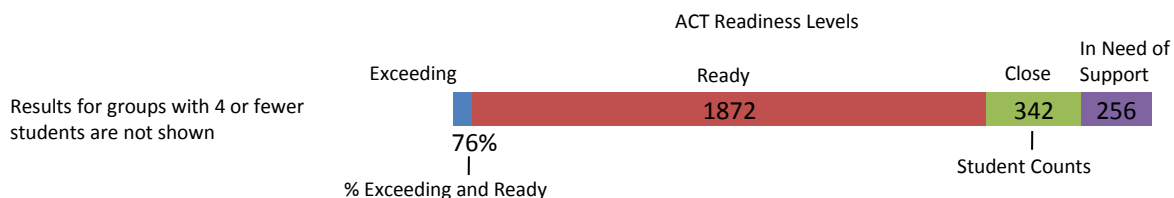

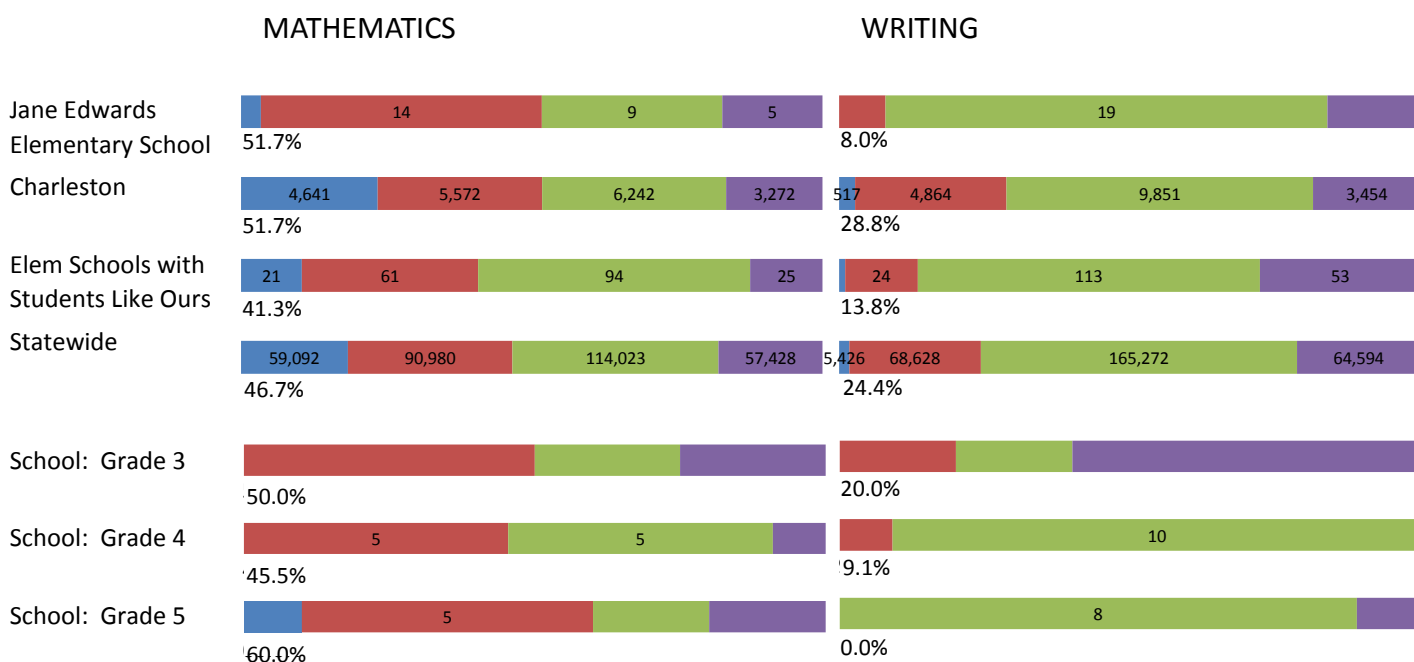

We have state winners from contests supported by the Edisto Art Guild. Opportunities such as our History Detectives, Recycling Team, Edisto Community Outdoor Classroom, Jane Edwards Garden and Monarch Butterfly Way Station, Fitness Club, cross-grade buddies, boat building, one classroom iPad set, WeatherBug Station, and other projects provide times for students to be creative, innovative, self-starters, broad thinkers, and artistically expressive.

We commit to work closely with our students, parents, and community to ensure our students exemplify the Profile of the South Carolina graduate.
