South Carolina State Report Card

State and federal laws require public schools to release report cards to the public each year. This year, the report card has been updated to reflect changes in reporting directed by the SC Education Oversight Committee. Schools will not be rated for state accountability purposes until Fall 2017 when the state will transition to a single accountability system. The following reports student performance in school year 2014-15.

Our school is helping all students develop the world class skills and life and career characteristics of the Profile of the Graduate by encouraging students to be active, engaged learners in an authentic learning environment grounded in inquiry. Teachers, students, parents and the community have worked together to create a culture where world class knowledge is built through rich experiences with STEM, arts, and social sciences as well as rigorous standards in language arts and math. At Hodges Elementary Greenwood School of Inquiry, teachers have been able to provide meaningful lessons for students through collaboration on integrated units of study and professional development focusing on the language of inquiry, literacy, technology applications, and assessment. These efforts were guided by student data such as MAP scores, common assessment results, kid-watching data, and student interests formatively analyzed within our professional learning communities and looping teams. Our students have been provided with touchstone experiences and engaging lessons to facilitate growth as mathematicians, scientists, linguists, readers, writers, and social scientists. Apprenticeship experiences for sharing within and among grade levels, collaborative projects, and character education allowed for growth in interpersonal skills, self-direction, perseverance, collaboration, and teamwork. Visitors from Boeing, Duke Energy, and the City of Greenwood shared with students. Research and presentation of expert research projects in each grade level provided a platform for critical thinking, problem solving, communication, and work ethic. Students showcased their creativity and innovation by participating in Fine Arts Night as featured artists, Lego robotics lessons and our Invention Convention. Fifth grade students learned to play violin while younger students learned to play recorder. Students participated in community service projects in support of local food banks, Relay for Life, Jump Rope for Heart, and the Pathway House. Students developed a global perspective through 4th graders sharing their work with Kopila Valley School in Nepal. Parents and the community shared in the growth and success of our school community as we recognized outstanding achievement of GSI students for world class skills as Kiwanis Terrific Kids, Eastern Star Outstanding Academics and Citizenship, Daughters of the American Revolution Essay Contest winners, and SC Science Academy winners. At our school-wide Friday Learning Celebrations, students pledge that they will learn from the world around them. Our students have certainly developed world class knowledge from their experiences at Hodges Elementary Greenwood School of Inquiry. Michael George, SIC Chairperson Lori Corley, Principal
