Our school is helping all students develop the world class skills and life and career characteristics of the Profile of the Graduate by implementing several new initiatives and improving upon other areas to ensure continuous growth. This year a team of five staff members participated in the iSTEM Innovative Program. Through this instructional leadership experience for science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) the team prepared to understand and implement engineering practices. The participants developed a vision and plan for STEM education for the 2015-2016 school year; identified characteristics of school culture, curriculum, and instruction that inspires design thinking and innovation; explored principles of engineering; applied engineering design processes; participated in and analyzed engineering design challenges and gained strategies to cultivate engineering habits of mind and 21st Century skills in students. After each training the teachers returned to their classrooms and implemented the strategies introduced to them during the training. The entire staff will receive staff development at the onset of the 2015-2016 school year. In addition, students continued to be exposed to opportunities to build their skills. Our Junior Beta Club participated in the state conference which allowed them to participate in competitions that required critical thinking, creativity, problem solving and innovation. Our third through eighth grade participated in the school science fair and we had twelve students compete in the Sandhills Regional Science Fair where two of our students earned an honorable mention and third place. Due to the many successful service projects sponsored by our Junior Beta Club and our active school-wide participation in those service projects, our school received the School of Distinction Award from the National Beta Club during the 2014-2015 school year. The WEMS SIC continued to work closely with the SC School Improvement Council representative in order to ensure that the council was focused on its goals and setting benchmarks for completion. We will continue to implement those strategies learned in the upcoming year. John Davis SIC President Janice Henson Principal
